

Use/Mention

September 12, 2013

Instructions: Add quotation marks to make the sentences below grammatically correct. If no quotations are needed, indicate this. Also, determine whether the sentence is a logical conjunction.

- (1) Underwood is Frank's and Claire's last name.
- (2) Yoda is the best jedi master.
- (3) If Socrates and Plato were philosophers is true, then so are Socrates was a philosopher and Plato was a philosopher.
- (4) Floccinaucinihilipilification is a long and funny word, since it tends to apply to itself.
- (5) If Whitehead and Russell wrote Principia, then Whitehead and Russell wrote Principia is true is true.
- (6) Houston and the most populated city in Texas refer to the same city.
- (7) Yields a falsehood when preceded by its quotation yields a falsehood when preceded by its quotation.
- (8) Neither Leibniz nor Newton were credited as the sole inventor of calculus.
- (9) (2) is false.
- (10) Cal's motto is fiat lux, which means let there be light.
- (11) A man or woman who has suffered through six years of post-graduate education to obtain a Ph.D deserves the utmost respect from those around him or her.
- (12) Dido and Aeneas are characters in the opera by Henry Purcell called Dido and Aeneas.